of New Hampshire & on the banks of the Merrimac - Peace were kindly received at the humble dwelling of our friend Ns Thompson - the last Opened - two meetings in the evening, one at the State Prison & one for the inhabitants in the town hall - both satisfactory - & we were glad to visit the very few friends. We returned to Weare early 1st day morng - & ~~held~~ attended large meeting at the South Weare in the morng, N. Weare in the aftn, & Henniker ~~two~~ 8 miles off in the evening - Had close work in the 2 former meetings - the influence of Universalism being destructively abroad in the neighborhood - but I was comforted in the belief that there is a lively body of Friends still preserved in these meetings - much pleased with Abijah Johnson a young minister - We left Weare 3rd day morng with peaceful impressions - though my own state was remarkably low - & arrived at Nashua in the aftn. Notice had been given in an absence of a meeting for the evening & which was held to my great relief (in the comprehend[illegible] [illegible]). It was a time of great quietness. After a good night we came to this large manufacturing town - having crossed the Merrimac at the falls which are striking - & a public meeting is appointed for the evening at the the Freewill Baptist meeting House. Here people fraternize with the Wesleyans in point of doctrine - Deeply affecting are the tidings received yesterday of the sudden death of my beloved young friend Chas Jenkins - I have no doubt that he was a changed character - & is now at rest in the Lord. —

The "smiles of Providence" in the shape of wild flowers have been a charm in this journey

New Haven Cont. First day morng
8mo. 12. 1838.

We held a good public meeting at Lowell a third day evg after the above entry - & after an unfavorable visit to their well ordered factories - & a 4th day returned to Lynn via Andover where I again called on Dr Woods & Prof Stuart. The meeting of men delsts in the aftn developed nice want of a lively energy the Friends are towards one another. I felt strongly on my heart a public meeting that evening at Marble Head - kindly entertained by a Methodist Reed the Campephonal minister - 5th day the large mo. meeting of Salem, at Lynn - a memorable time in which close a meeting afterwards.
