Phila. 5th day 10 mo. 14 1839

I am in a languid, rather trembling state, not altogether without comfort - or trouble - yet pretty quiet - My history has been a remarkable one since the last entry - 2d day last - the treat of the preceding Eve, a preparation for suffering - Some painful things of the unfaithfulness of a friend towards me - In the evening tea visit with H. Hinsdale at J.W's - Thursday when H. W. broke out upon me, & developed truly Hicksite sentiments - sleepless & affected night afterwards - & next day - set out for Long Island - meeting reversed & completed for large & blessed meeting at Brooklyn afterwards Flushing. The next day 4th - drive very agreeable - Good meetings at Westbury - & Hempstead. the latter a favored opy - evening at Wm Willis's at Jericho - precious time with them the next morning - accompanied Courtney to Flushing - memorable meeting there - Hope for the help of those who are cast down - most satisfactory intercourse with Saml Parsons. - 6th day of the week returned to New York - spent 6th day there. & ended with a good sitting at Wm T. Mott's 7th day. By boat to Philada. - President

Van Buren aboard with whom I had a good deal of conversation. - ending with the gift of Jos Tr's Test books - A most kind reception awaited me here at I.H.P's - & yesterday certainly might be called a good Sabbath - Good meeting North in the morng - very solemn Meeting in the afternoon - Pulling at Western in the Eve. - Today a visit from dearest Hester Grellet & Dillwyn Smith & Rachel Strange friends in the Gospel it appears, but I have been wonderfully relieved of an a full interview with a friend this afternoon set for whose afternoon expressed tender help, I feel truly grateful.

Baltimore 6th day afternoon 10 mo 25th 1839

In as great a depth of poverty & gloom & uncertainty as I have experienced since my arrival in America. I scarcely know what is the matter with me. Lord! help me, I reverently beseech thee, & enable me quietly to bear all the buffetings & conflicts which falls to my lot until it shall please thee again to lift up the light of thy Countenance upon me & - to show me thy way - & to walk before me therein! O for humility, brokenness, patience, faith! And yet I have many mercies to record - & ought to put my trust in the Lord - O may
