ches on 5th day morng — ~~had~~ "Let all flesh be silent before the Lord" & illy relinquishing was painted vividly on little appearance of the contrary spirit, with re-markably full concurrence — so also in the women's meeting. In the early part of the day we received the sad tidings of Dudlow's death. I have borne a testimony to the power of God in him, in both men's & women's meetings. Nothing I doubt not his being at rest with the Lord. Nothing can have expected, the love & kindness of pasto-rate spring afresh is well indeed dear — & we parted this morning, in the fleshings of a holy cordiality. Blessed be the name of the Lord, now & for ever. I am not yet well or strong — but have a degree of hope the Lord in his abundant mercy will carry me safely thro that remains in this country & bring me home in Love in peace. But I desire to leave all to his Covenant love & care.

Seventh day morng. After the favor of a good night, I feel able to take a calm quiet view of things — & find myself fastened just at present, to this place — both by the absence of a boat for Portsmouth & partly by the attachment of some concern for meetings here & at Portsmouth. Great quietness in the covering of my spirit — my health better my fears removed. Blessed, for ever blessed, be the Lord!

Providence 1st day morng 6/9 mo. 1840

I have had my doubts since the last entry, chiefly thro a feeling of inadequacy — but I have abundant cause for thankfulness.
First Day. Excellent meeting at Newport in the morning — Rebellion by my side in the afternoon — after a night of poorness & conflict — Moses H Beede came in afterwards — dined at David Buffum's — to pleasant drive & large meeting at Portsmouth in the afternoon — drank tea at Jonathan Dennis's — then to Tiverton & Westport — where we spent a calm, refreshing day, & I poured out my heart, in a long private letter to my children. At Brook tea & spent the evening very agreeably with Dr. Channing & his family. ~~Yesterday~~ I lodged at Asa Sherman's, where we met with warm friendship.
Yesterday took leave of Moses Beede at the Ferry, & took Steamer to Providence — Poorly & nervous all day — but the afternoon brought me delightful letters from home — first rate accounts from S. G. & the children — for which I hope I am bowed in thankfulness before the Lord. Sinking Bessy have thus been raised to be again with them speedily, & some corresponding anxiety lest I could not reach them. But after a fair night, I am better & more hopeful. Bless the Lord, O my soul!
