Summary Answers.

Ans. 1st. All our meetings both for worship and Discipline have been held, and attended on first day mornings by our members generally - those in the afternoon of first days and near the middle of the week, continue to be neglected by many - unbecoming behavior therein mostly avoided, and the hours of meeting mostly observed.

Ans. 2nd. Friends generally appear to maintain love towards each other becoming our Christian profession - calumniating and detraction are mostly discouraged, and when differences have appeared care has been extended.

Ans. 3rd. Some friends appear by example and precept, to comply with the requisitions of this query, but more care in these respects would be profitable, as many deficiencies are acknowledged to exist in relation thereto.

Ans. 4th. Our testimony against the unnecessary use of spirituous liquors is generally maintained; frequenting taverns and attending places of diversion mostly avoided, and care is taken to observe moderation and temperance.
