Our testimony against slavery appears to be maintained. Those of the African race in Friends families are suitably provided for, and some care is taken to instruct them in useful learning.

Ninth

Care appears to be generally taken to deal with known offenders seasonably and impartially, and to come to those who will not be reclaimed, the spirit of meekness and love, before they are disowned.

Friends are generally careful, as far as practicable, to place their Children for tuition under the charge of suitable teachers in membership with us.

The Committee to which was referred the consideration of the propriety of some modification in the time of holding the daily sessions of the Yearly Meeting, reported that they, with a committee of Women's Meeting, had met and deliberately considered the subject, but that way did not open at this time to propose making any change. They recommend the subject to the consideration of the meeting next year.

After serious consideration, the report of the Committee was approved, and the subject accordingly referred to the consideration of our next Yearly Meeting.

Then adjourned to 3 O'clock tomorrow afternoon.
