

"did, but I have been led in a line
 "that has cut me off from flattery and "applause - yet I never found any "true or solid peace in any thing
 "but in being faithful to God "and man." and further said, he had a comfortable hope that when these slight afflictions were over all would be well.

At another time he lamented that any who had been favoured should become familiar with those who were enemies to the Cross of Christ, as he saw a danger attending it, and of weakness ensuing.

After a time of great bodily affliction a Friend coming in, he said, "This "has been a hard night and day so far,
 "but I believe I shall not have many "more, and it matters not how few if I "can but found of that happy number "whose works have been such that they "shall be pronounced blessed; but I "find it to be a great work to be "thoroughly sanctified in body, soul

 "and spirit."

On taking leave of one of his sisters (two others being present) he said, "I esteem it "as a great favour, that I feel my mind
 "much wearied from all things here below,
 "and the natural part in me much "subdued, yet I feel you near to me not "only in an outward relationship, but thro'
 "the Grace and Goodness of the Lord, we have "been united together in the one spirit, "Baptized with the same Baptism into "the one Body, and drank together of the "same Spiritual ^{or} fountain."

At another time a few Friends coming into his room, silence was experienced to cover with incomes of tendering Love for a short space, he then expressed that he had often thought since he had lain there, tho' in great bodily pain and distress that he had great cause to be thankful in feeling his mind in
