

160
help and strength afforded to her, and as she thus came to experience the mercy and goodness of her Divine Master, she felt it to be her duty to give public testimony thereof, in our religious meetings, in which weighty service she was at times fervently engaged for about eighteen years. - Her early appearances were in much simplicity and brokenness of spirit, and abiding under the sanctifying influence of that power, that qualifies for true gospel ministry, she gradually evinced an increase of solid weight, frequently enlarged with much energy and sweetness, on the loving kindness of our heavenly father to the children of men, in favouring them with the visitations of his love, revealing in their hearts a knowledge of his will, and affording a capacity to work out the salvation of the soul, under a living sense thereof; she often declared it to be an unspeakable favour, that we are permitted to unite with our friends in quiet retirement from ~~the~~ worldly cares, and she often expressed her anxious solicitude on behalf of herself and dear friends, that such opportunities might be improved to benefit.

161

She was a worthy example of diligence in the attendance of our