

and works for Foreign Missions at alternate meetings.
A box containing various articles made by these children has just been sent to our school at Nav-Braham.

We commend the work, both in Syria and Mexico, to the continued support of our friends.

On behalf of the Committee

Anna B. Thomas, Sec. Secretary.

25 A minute from Iowa Yearly Meeting, in reference to the formation of a Friends' Foreign Missionary Board was laid before the Yearly Meeting by Dr Johnson of that Meeting, and we have appointed John B. Crenshaw, James Kearney, John Nicholson, Julia Valentine, Jane E. White, and Anna B. Thomas, to take the subject under their consideration and report to a future sitting of this Meeting. Jesse Edwards and Mary E. Edwards gave an interesting account of Friends in Oregon.

26 The following minute of the Meeting on Ministry and Oversight was read, and directed to be read in the subordinate Meetings on Ministry and Oversight.

In the consideration of the Queries, the Meeting was led to consider the importance of our meetings for worship as a witness to the power of the Lord. They form a test of our individual spiritual condition.

We wait on the Lord not only for the refreshment of our own souls, but for the word of command and for power to perform the service required of us. As we submit ourselves to the Lord's call, we can also pray for more laborers to be sent into the harvest.

In our Christian service, let us go forth in the spirit of hope, believing that the Lord's power is equal to every emergency. Let us trust as well as obey. True unity in feeling and in service comes from loving the Lord with all our hearts, and loving one another. When each one is in his own place, the work will go harmoniously forward.
