

Labors of our dear Friend, Harriet Green Yearly Meeting in 1901, with Minute Thanks Monthly Meeting, Essex a Meeting, and Loudon Yearly Meeting and Oversight in 1896, and a few Loudon Yearly Meeting on Ministry 1901, and who with her companions Iry, faithfully labored amongst 1901-1902; visiting nearly all of our and entering into the conditions of the helpful influence of her work, effect of her single-hearted devotion been felt ever since; and many of whom she labored are to-day pronounced blessings that came to them through her. Signed on behalf of the Yearly and Oversight

Richard Henry

A minute was read for David a Minister who has been this Yearly Meeting. The company of our new is acceptable to us. The Clerk was directed to forward the Minute to the Yearly Meeting.

and scattered, and of the difficulty experienced in attempting united effort, but says that opportunities for individual effort are availed of with blessing attending them.

The Committee appointed in 1901, to prepare returning Minutes for our Friends Harriet Green and her companion, Sophia M. Fry, of England, after the conclusion of their service, presented drafts of such Minutes, which were approved, and the Clerk was directed to sign them on our behalf, and forward them to their home Meetings.

In view of the fact that Harriet Green was called from her earthly service while still engaged in her ministry in this country, the Clerk was directed to lay the Minute relating to her before the Yearly Meeting with the request that if approved, it should be enclosed in the Epistle to that Yearly Meeting, as in some degree expressing our sense of the value of her service amongst us.

The true messenger must be chosen of God, and we should wait in silence till God touch our hearts.

Let us beware of letting our meetings for worship become essentially arranged as to vocal exercises, either by agreement or understanding or by objection to any but a few taking vocal part. When a message is being delivered, let our reverent attention set the example to others not to undervalue the gift.

Finally, let us remember that the work is God's. We are to be co-workers with God. The secret of power is to dwell in His love, for he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him.

RICHARD HENRY THOMAS, Clerk.

Then adjourned till 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Let us cherish among us the gift of Prophecy. It is the giving forth of a direct message from God. In the apostolic days it was considered as the chief gift of the church; to-day many Christians doubt if there be such a gift. Arranged addresses and stated readings have their place, but let us keep the emphasized place for prophecy. If it be true that God can and does send helpful messages through His children, these messages must be the most helpful things that a messenger can say, and it is better for a meeting to receive a short faltering message, really sent from above, than to and eloquent address not so sent. The true messenger of God must be chosen of God, and we should wait in silence till God touch our hearts.

Let us beware of letting our meetings for worship become essentially arranged as to vocal exercises, either by arrangement or understanding, or by objection to any but a few taking vocal part. When a message is being delivered, let our reverent attention set the example to others not to undervalue the gift. Finally, let us remember that the work is God's. We are to be co-workers with God. The secret of power is to dwell in His love, for he that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God, and God in him.

Richard Henry Thomas, Clerk.

Then adjourned

Richard Henry Thomas, Clerk.