Christian Temperance Union went with them. Beside the regular business meetings there were four meetings on Christ-day at the meeting-house at Black Creek - two meetings in the house and two in the open air. In the evening there was a meeting at Corinth (Raiford's) Bethel (Jno. Pellow's mission) and at Ella Harris's. On Second-day (21st ult.) there was a meeting in the morning and afternoon at Black Creek both of which were well attended. In the evening there were meetings in most of the neighbouring places as on the previous evening, most of the Baltimore deputation going to Corinth. They attended the meeting for worship at Black Creek the next third day morning and part of the Monthly Meeting that followed, returning by boat that evening. The attendance at all the meetings was good and the attention very satisfactory, and notwithstanding the crowd, and the short time between the meetings there were several opportunities for personal conference with some of the members and for some service in the families.

The condition of the membership seems to be satisfactory, most of the new members
