

have had the apt. Every thing is so unlamin as to be left that it may be we shall yet need thy aid, we can perhaps should have down, it is a comfort to us to have them to look to.

The apprentice in Ireland friend Northampton kind in last also to whom them can explain what we have done. He should be sorry to see him latter from his former highly useful position - but we doubt not couraged by what we hear from West, Jellison & Croft.

May the blessing of God be upon our work, upon the children & upon the labourers - may the fasting which thou has shown abroad arise & move many for this blessing to those who can best be it.

With much love to you all

friend J. J. May
