

[illegible]

No 4. The great channel on the Port. They do not need permanent floats, but the willows - each has an open piece of land parallel to the water. The channel, but we gain some in the great channel, & in the dry, the great by being a dry way forward - it gives a draught of 16, about 14 ft 6 in. The river is a great stream, with a very little bar in the large and in the middle in it - it has a place for a small stone in the back of the river to the sea. This is the best for a small one, and the best for a small one, and the best for a small one.

MS Brunt elevation. The first ridge in the gale gives ventilation to the front room & hence elevation to the house. The large hairs, including bay windows - slide up into