remained enclosed from that day to this - & where I found them safe & secured this day. I spoke to several persons upon the subject since the war & presumed you considered them safer here than in any place you had until the fire proof brick vault was built in the new Mint House.

They are subject to the order of the Mint for Deposit at any time - now through my Clerk, or upon my returns in the 9th Mo. if wanted now please address Thos. J. Fluharty Baltimore & direct him how to send them & to whom.

Please read this to your Cir. & to the Meeting for Sufferings & oblige thy friend
