

She lived a life of helpfulness in the different communities in which she made her home, and always radiated cheer and courage to those about her. Having had a variety of experiences and being of an outgoing nature, she was able to help her neighbors in their everyday lives whether on occasions of joy or sorrow. She was always aware of the condition of those around her and sensitive to their needs.

The throng of neighbors and friends attending her memorial service at Bether Friends Meeting House attests to the love and esteem in which she was held.

" She served the Lord with gladness and with singless of heart."
