Memorial of Baltimore Monthly Meeting of Friends Concerning
Richard Henry Thomas, M. D.

Richard Henry Thomas was the youngest son of Dr. Richard H. and Phebe Clapp Thomas, and was born in Baltimore, Maryland, on the 26th of First month, 1854. His parents both died before he was six years old, but he, with his brothers and sister was most tenderly cared for by their aunt, Henrietta M. Thomas. After attending private schools in Baltimore, and graduating at Haverford College, Pennsylvania, he studied medicine at the University of Maryland, and took his degree in 1875. In the autumn of the same year he went to London and continued his medical studies through the winter and spring. While in London he took an active interest in the religious work carried on by Friends, and helped to inaugurate the Young Friends' Christian Fellowship Union, which has been a means of blessing to many. He returned home in 1876, and in 1878 he went again to England for his marriage with Anna Lloyd, second daughter of Joseph Bevan and Martha Braithwaite, of London. On returning home with his wife, soon after their marriage, he entered upon the practice of medicine, in which he was thoroughly interested and successful. He was very active in the work of Baltimore Meeting, and was also for some time Chairman of the Young Men's Christian Association open-air work.

He had been extremely delicate in infancy, and was never very strong, and in the summer of 1880 his heart became so seriously affected that he was ordered to give up all work and go abroad. He therefore joined his wife, who, with their infant daughter, was on a visit to her parents in England. When he had somewhat recovered, they spent nine months in Vienna, that he might prepare himself to take up
