

writes: - "There is much in my heart and mind of her beautiful Character. her wonderful patience during her years of sufferings, her quick Ministry to every one she came in contact with, the poor Colored people in the neighborhood, the servants and every one around. - but it was all done so quietly and unostentatiously that it is difficult to put it on record" -

She had a family of nine children, of whom six, with her husband, survive her and these all wish to put upon record in this memorial, their testimony to her gentle, unselfish love and unceasing devotion to their best interests both temporal and spiritual -

In 1866 she removed with her husband and family to the vicinity of Lake Station in Baltimore County where she resided till her death. Here in company with a few friends and others who would gather together for worship on Irish Day Mornings, she met week after week and here she felt the call to bear public testimony to the love of her Heavenly Father. This service was always an effort to her retiring nature, and she felt in yielding, that she was offering herself a living sacrifice unto her Lord -

At the same time she had a strong sense not only of the divine call to speak, but of having a message to deliver and of the importance of delivering it. - She was recorded a Minister by Baltimore Monthly Meeting in 3rd Mo. 1881, and continued, acceptably to exercise her Ministry until her death which took place on the 18th of 12th Month 1889 -

As her physical strength declined and the hold she had upon this world was evidently loosening, her vision of the Lord became clearer and clearer. During her last illness when in her physical weakness she would be tempted by discouragements, her mind seemed to dwell on the 4th Chapter of the 1st Epistle of John with its repeated declaration of "God is love", and frequently asked for J. R. Havergal's hymn on "Perfect Rest" which was always a great comfort to her -

On one occasion, when very weak, she said slowly and distinctly: - "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever. God the Father, the same yesterday, today and forever. I want every body to know it. I want you to tell every one." Then she added a question which it were well for all eyes to take home to ourselves: - "Have I lived; have I shown
