

instead of having persons into membership with us, but not such as would provide the abundant with the responsibilities of church membership, nor will it continue to a spirit of good fellowship. . . .
With a few exceptions it was decided to recommend to the Pastoral Com. that letters to and the address - instead of one when they will be formally, we - with membership, reporting that they sit near the front and vice, as their names are read. . . .
The method the committee believe would serve at least two important things - getting our membership better acquainted and afford an opportunity for a little talk on the responsibilities and mutual advantages of membership.

Minutes of Com. at R. I. Winter
For the Pastoral Committee
The committee, to consider work and means whereby a closer relationship may be established between the Pastoral Committee and the entire membership - with the view of promoting mutual counsel concerning the spiritual life and religious activities of the meeting - met. at 8:30 at the home of Richard I. Duff. All the members were present. Minutes of while and John R. Long were asked to meet with the committee.
After a time of prayer, it was voted to our attention that our present

The Com. further suggests the importance of varying the program of the Monthly meeting - that the families of the church stay committed itself to the serious consideration of our young people - possibly by occasional Mtg. speakers, or by operating the business of the meeting when possible, into a half hour period of time - thus affording an opportunity for the presentation and discussion of the problems - political, social and religious - which are claiming the service that of our young people today. We recommend that Elizabeth McGully, Ruth P. Hunter, Hollander Parker, & Charles Carey, Royden
