

23 B

into the Heavenly Mansions, we shall find that the inhabitants thereof are composed of the good people of all Denominations. Although some think differently, owing to their early surroundings, and instructions. evening. Kate & Lizzie have returned from their walk, and are talking so ^{& cheerily} fast, that I must ^{put} my pen & paper aside, and listen, or shall be liable to make mistakes. The Sun is setting - its rising & setting have been peculiarly glorious this Autumn. The prospect from our balcony is inimitably beautiful, when the leaves on the trees are red, yellow, ^{green} golden, & purple. ~~and~~ If this world is so beautiful, what must heaven be?

By Postal from dear H. Janney, we were informed of the advent of a real, new baby, in their midst. He wrote that Ann had a daughter, but did not state whether it was Joseph's, or Edward's, Anne. In a hurry I guess. 7th day morning. the 6th inst.

The ground, trees, &c. covered with snow, the first with a small exception, of the season.

The girls send over so much love - as would Phil, if here. We think & talk of thee every day. Bettie's kindness is appreciated by us all!