

40 B

Love to dear Jane, Maggie & their families. Tell Jane, the best remedy that I know of for insomnia, is Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, an old fashioned remedy, often taken for coughs, but it contains nourishment, & prevents sleeplessness, when taken according to directions. And sleep is so necessary for both mind and body, that we cannot well do without it. ~

Is my Cousin strong enough to go from home during the ensuing season? I would like to have a letter informing of your calculations, as Catharine says, "that we may be thinking about her when she is." She, Lizzie, and Philip look upon thee as an Aunt, almost, having known thee, at dear old South River, intermingled with dear ones of both families, when they were children, and invariably good & kind to them. ~