

Well, We Still Have Lynchers And
The Successors Of Witch Burners

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING SUN—Sir:

Voltaire, Gibbon and Buckle lie on my table. The attacks made on Voltaire, Gibbon and Buckle in their day are much like the ones made on Mencken. Am I living in the eighteenth, nineteenth or twentieth century. Please straighten me out.

H. O. ALDERSON.

Volga, W. Va., Dec. 18.